

To us, our debut Gin, Six Dogs Karoo Gin, is not just about the handpicked botanicals, or our custom designed copper still, or the molecular technology we use to protect the delicate flowers used in the Gin. It is about waking up every day and loving what we do. It's about setting out to make the finest gin we can, one batch at a time. It is about creating something special. Something to be proud of. That's who we are. Six Dogs' distinguishing botanicals are grown on our farm, which intersects three different bio-regions including the Succulent Karoo. It is from here that we gather the Karoo Thorn flower and Wild Lavender that make our Gin unique amongst all the Gins in the world.

DISTILLED AT THE FRINGE OF THE KAROO

No one really knows where the Karoo begins and ends. We do know, however, that in our little valley of De Wet, nestled between the Breede River Valley and the Hex River Valley, the wild things grow! We use some of these wild plants of the Karoo in our Gin, also growing our own botanicals whilst supporting neighbouring farmers who grow specific fruit for us. Our distillery was built with a view of the mountains and the greater Karoo, looking up towards the kloof from which we get the purest mountain water ever, and yes, you guessed right - that's the source of the water we use to make our Gin. In the evenings, we can just see the lights of Worcester behind us as we take in the beautiful view up the valley and wonder if the Karoo doesn't actually begin right here at the Distillery.

THE BOTANICALS, THE GIN & THE TASTING

We've created a unique and intricate Gin of twelve select botanicals, distilled and bottled by us at Six Dogs Distillery. Sip it and you will pick up the paired notes of Juniper and Wild Lavender that introduces the Karoo. What follows is a fresh medley of citrus including Limes, Clemengold and farm grown Lemon Buchu, all shouting to come out of the glass. Cassia, Chamomile and Angelica bind the heart of the Gin while the delicate flower of the Acacia Thorn adds a top note of soft sweetness.

Six Dogs is best enjoyed as is, over ice, with a good tonic and a twist of lime rind.
